Bushwhacking Your Way to Great Landscape Photography .2017-06-01 Photographer, naturalist, and adventurer has a well trained eye and has clocked countless hours in the wild—both on the trails and far from the beaten path. In this book, he will teach you how to gear up for a successful shoot (both in terms of choosing and using equipment and preparing yourself psychologically and physically), then offers practical technical and artistic insights as to how to best go about documenting untouched landscapes, natural details, and the sense of seclusion one encounters in such a realm. Readers will learn how to choose and use a variety of lenses—from macro to telephoto—to produce a stunning array of images and will learn how to choose and use the best camera settings, find striking mood enhancing light, and create strong compositions. Morrissey also includes step-by-step instructions for postproduction techniques that can be used to add texture and apply color infusions. With inspiring images plus essential techniques for creating display-worthy images, this book is an essential pick for amateur and veteran landscape photographers.

Balthasar Burkhard Balthasar Burkhard, Laurent Busine, Harald Szeemann. 2004 This is a book about the beauty of nature - its force, silence, and eternal existence - and about cities, seen from above as they keep growing, threatening to suffocate us. Burkhard presents work from the last 10 years, images from all over the world - from Japan to the USA, from South America to Africa.

Workshop Landschaftsfotografie Timm Allrich. 2019-08-31 Ohne Umwege zu perfekten Landschaftsfotos Es gibt unzählige Fotoratgeber, die in nüchterner Perfektion technische Aspekte und Grundlagen beleuchten. Mit ihrer allumfassenden Theorie erinnern sie an trockene Lehrbücher und wirken auf viele Foto-Einsteiger und Hobbyfotografen eher abschreckend. Ganz anders ist dieser praxisnahe Workshop! Mit vielen Beispiel- und Vergleichsbildern, praktischen Tipps und Checklisten werden 50 Themenbereiche der Landschaftsfotografie beleuchtet. An welchen Orten ist ein Stativ unerlässlich? Wie verändert sich die Bildschärfe durch unterschiedliche Blendenöffnung? Wie kann man Wellen, Nebel, Regen oder Mondlicht perfekt in Szene setzen? Aus der Trickkiste eines Profis Als Timm Allrich mit dem Fotografieren begann, beschäftigte ihn lange Zeit eine Frage: Warum sehen meine Bilder nicht so genial aus wie die der Profifotografen? Das nötige Equipment war da, die Grundbegriffe der Fotografie und der Umgang mit der Kamera bekannt, er sah die Wunder der Natur durch seinen Sucher - nur eben nicht auf seinen Bilderergebnissen. Heute weiß er, dass Übung und praktische Erfahrung der Schlüssel zum Erfolg sind. Deshalb hält er sich in seinem Workshop gar nicht erst mit trockener Theorie auf, sondern liefert die besten Praxis-Tipps zum Sofort-Nachmachen. Ein Traum für alle Hobbyfotografen, die erfahren wollen, worauf es bei richtig guten Landschaftsfotos ankommt, und die nie wieder sagen möchten: „In Wirklichkeit war es schöner.“ Aus dem Inhalt: • Das 1x1 der Brennweiten • Relevante Kameramodi • Die richtige Kleidung • Licht, Licht, wir brauchen Licht • Beobachte das Wetter • Der perfekte Bildaufbau an Beispielen • Langzeitbelichtung an Beispielen • Gegenlicht • Neben • Reflexionen • Panorama-Aufnahmen • Kenne deine Locations • Familienurlaub und fotografieren? • Deine persönliche Handschrift finden

Robert Adams Thomas Zander.2017 The subject of Robert Adams's latest book, An Old Forest Road, is the privilege of walking through a little-visited reserve of forest near the photographer's home in the American Northwest Robert Adams's latest work, An Old Forest Road, is a pensive register of the photographer's walks along a former logging road near his home in Oregon, made between 2012 and 2013. 'Light', Adams wrote in The New West, is 'the source of all Form', and in this sequence of pictures it again assumes a predominant role. Piercing through a loose canopy of branches and leaves, it reveals the luscious shapes and structures of the forest, while illuminating the time-worn pathway: the forest road. Sometimes the sunlight is so intense, it appears to set the path ablaze. Shadows, too, are prominent in the images, confronting the mystery and depth of the natural world: they occlude the way forward, rendering it as a tunnel to a destination unknown.

Panoramarand Martin Hochleitner, Claudia Slanar.2016 For panoramarand, Matthias Klos (b. 1969) walked around the entire city of Salzburg in Austria. The route description for his itinerary was the Umschreibung der Stadtgrenze, i.e., the city limits as set out in the city ordinance. Very much in the tradition of the fleur, Klossa Vienna-based photographer followed this written yet imaginary line around Salzburg, keeping to public rights of way the whole time. The idea for the project came from the well-known 19th-century panoramic painting of the city by Johann Michael Sattler. Projected with an idealized 360 perspective, the painting opens up views of the city and its outskirts from a central location on the Festungsberg that was not publicly accessible at the time of painting. In his wanderings along the city limits the artist combines the legislative order of the abstract boundary with the image that the city of Salzburg likes to project of itself.

Wim Wenders Wim Wenders, Beat Wismer. 2015 Wim Wenders' fame stems primarily from his motion pictures such as Paris, Texas, Wings of Desire, and Pina, yet the filmmaker admits: Photography is the other half of my life. In honor of his 70th birthday in 2015, the Dusseldorf Museum Kunstpalast is exhibiting large-format photographs and landscape panoramas. When you're on the go a lot, Wim Wenders writes, when you like to meander in order to lose yourself, you can end up in the strangest places. It must be a sort of built-in radar that often guides me into areas that are either peculiarly quiet or else peculiar in a quiet way. Unlike the filmmaker, Wenders dispenses with modern technical contrivances as a photographer. He prefers analog photography, without artificial light or a tripod. The exhibition catalogue will feature his series Written in the West, Buena Vista Social Club, Once, Pictures from the Surface of the Earth, and Journey to Onomichi, among others.

Color Photography, the Landscape Hugo Schöttle. 1979

Off Season Christoph Janacs. 2015 What happens to lakes when the swimming season is over and the beaches are locked up? What remnant of the summer lingers on? Who returns to these abandoned areas, maybe to spend the winter there? Writer Christoph Janacs and photographer Peter Schlager took a journey to the deserted beaches in the province of Salzburg, the Salzkammergut Region and on the lake Chiemsee. They captured their melancholy poetic charm, sometimes even recorded unintentionally humorous images. Off Season lets you watch the fog creeping over these forsaken places and cold lakes, shows you things left behind, buried in deep snow, deprived of forms and colors. Locked up bathing cabins, deserted playgrounds and abandoned objects, the lake is tranquil, noble, and eternally beautiful. The following lakes are included: Abtsee, Attersee, Chiemsee, Fuschlsee, Grabensee, Holzöstersee, Ibmer See, Imsee, Irrsee, Mattsee, Mondsee, Obertrumsee, Traunsee, Wallersee, Wolfgangsee

Landscapes Alistair Hicks, Tomas Träskman. 2011 Strongly influenced by traditional Chinese landscape painting, Sandra Kantanen (born 1974) at first sought to replicate its motifs in her art, but it was not until she began printing photographs on hand-painted metal that she attained satisfying equivalent effects. Kantanen digitally processes photographs taken in China, Japan, Finland and Tibet, creating distortion, blurring and streaking with her metal backdrops.

Stille Magie der Alpen Markus Gisler.2017-10 Shady slopes and in-between tones: a different photographic view on mountains. Nowhere is the question of existence so tangible as in the solitude of the mountains. Photographer Markus Gisler has an eye for the unusual, the surprising and the poignant. He is fascinated by shades and nuances: foggy, snowy or rainy days, mystically overcast mountain chains, dramatic cloud formations and eerie twilight moods. Gisler's photographs are powerful images of nature that allow the observer to actively share in the diversity and intensity of the Alpine world. The sublimity of nature reverberates throughout this volume.

Focus on Digital Landscape Photography George Schaub.2010 Photographers who want to improve their picture taking need a book that cuts right to the chase--one that provides the information instantly, without forcing them to wade through loads of extraneous detail. That's just what acclaimed photographer and teacher George Schaub does in this superb introduction to scenic photography: he outlines only the crucial concepts and principles--from spot metering and fill flash to backlighting and sharpening--and applies them to real-world shooting scenarios out in the field. This guide will help photographers: - Use camera tools such as the highlight warning to check images in the field and make sure skies and waterfalls are not overexposed - Reduce noise in deep-forest shadows and in sunset and sunrise photos - Make flowers stand out with photos that exhibit painterly bokeh - Use white balance to creatively accentuate autumn colors - Control shutter to convey movement in streams and rivers

Christian Helmle: Thunersee .2016 Swiss photographer Christian Helmle (born 1952) presents a topography of the iconic Swiss lake Thunersee, a region he has frequented since his youth. He has captured many aspects of the multifaceted lake--the surrounding mountains, the changing sky and the surface of the water.

The Great Unreal Nico Krebs.2011

The Walk August Eriksson, Mårten Snickare.2016 The Walk entails a tension, indeed a paradox, between the subject and the medium. The subject, the walk, is about process, physical movement, step after step further along the path; while the medium, the photograph, is an arrested moment of seeing. August Eriksson captures the corporeal movement by seriality and repetition. Sixty-six images follow one after another, all with the same strict composition: the path, seen from the eye level of the walker, disappears into the vanishing point of the image. The images urges me on to browse further, to continue moving from spread to spread, following along in the repetition and variation in the images. August Eriksson is a photographer based in Sweden. He exhibited in institutions like Kulturhuset and Fotografins hus in Stockholm. The Walk is his second photo book. In 2014 he published Sacred Waters about the Japanese bathing culture. His interest in working with publications started when he founded photo art magazine Motiv in 2004

Places to Go, People to See Thomas Hilland.2001 The term 'places to go, people to see' is commonly used to express that one is in a rush and on the run. In this sense of agility, this text is a diverse collection of photographic work.

Into the Light Katharina Jacobi.2018 Since earliest times the colour white has exerted a powerful fascination on Man for its purity, glistening brightness, magic and symbolism. Fascinated by the power of the colour white, Tom Jacobi travelled seven continents and photographed breathtaking landscapes which reveal a timeless power and offer space for contemplation.

8630 Mariazell Erwin Polanc.2017 After (the small rural community of) Neumarkt and (the old mining town of) Eisenerz, Erwin Polanc has now trained his photographic lens on Mariazell. In doing so he has focused on yet another remote inner-Austrian town, which is itself retrospective in its orientation and therefore underscores the nature of photography as an image of remembrance; but unlike the two aforementioned localities, Mariazell is also bound to the presence of the holy. The town of Mariazell is a perfect illustration of how the circles out of which the centre defines itself can be concealed. Of how loftily the centre towers above all else, and its axuality is broken as it descends into the profane. Erwin Polanc has captured that stumble and the reactions of the profane.

Landscape Photography Today Ingrid Brugger, Florian Steininger, Kunstforum Wien. 2015

Landscape in my Mind covers the whole gamut of current positions in international landscape photography from Hamish Fulton to Andreas Gursky. Always a network of connections between man and nature landscape presents itself as a mental projection level of the perception of our surroundings - both close and distant. The works of art function as 'distorted' mirrors of perceived reality; they are not pure documentations produced at the click of a camera but hybrid tableaux between fiction and abstraction, metaphors of the view of the world and beyond. Typically, the photographs are 'pictures painted with the camera' in large format, which exude the self-confidence of New Photography. Blurring effects and compositional qualities enhance the tableau's painterly and pictorial value. Consequently, artists such as Elger Esser or Jörg Sasse, for example, see themselves more as 'picture composers' rather than photographers. Rather than the objective perception of landscape as found in say, Thomas Struth, these images elicit emotions in the observer, including feelings of being overwhelmed, melancholy, disquiet and dread. Some of the artists in the exhibition present landscape photography as an experience and adventure, and resort to manipulative means in doing so. 'Global landscapes' produced as digital collages and enriched using found footage from the Web. Others destroy the illusion, as when Thomas Ruff reveals images in pixelated resolution to be nothing more than digital information. Landscape photography as a painterly construction of reality. Landscape Photography. 1984 Fotografisk billedværk.

Candlestick Point Lewis Baltz, Wolfgang Scheppe. 2011 Candlestick Point was first published in 1989 and has been unavailable for decades, other than as an expensive collectible on the secondary photobook market.

Peaks of Europe Johan Lolos. 2018 'Peaks of Europe' is not a traditional landscape photography book. It's the result of a 5-month adventure across 17 countries told through the lens of a European travel photographer who took 29 years to finally explore the continent on which in he was born. The book has been designed for a specific purpose: telling the story of a 5-month road trip and what it takes to be living out of a car for several months, with all the good and bad moments. For this project, Johan Lolos wasn't just documenting the landscapes. This book features a series of photos with a focus on the storytelling as much as the imagery. At the end, the people he met were what he remembered most.

Landscapes Bernd Uhde. 2009 Photos that are so compelling, complex, and interesting for just that reason: Landscapes is a series of works from Bernd Uhde in which he searches for a maximum level of abstraction via framing and motif selection in things made of concrete. Some pictures cannot simply be deciphered as motif photographs, but rather suggest abstract textures of a rough, fibrous paintbrush, smoothed colors, or oils merging with each other - and thus, painting. This confusing, vexatious game between two fundamentally different art techniques - photography and painting - emphasizes the esthetic dimension of his work. Esthetic convenience and hazy anxiety begin to oscillate and with that, Bernd Uhde creates one specific thing in particular: a situation can be viewed without there being any denial.
