Educating Milwaukee James K. Nelsen.2015-11-17 Milwaukee's story is unique in that its struggle for integration and quality education has been so closely tied to [school] choice. --from the Introduction Educating Milwaukee: How One City's History of Segregation and Struggle Shaped Its Schools traces the origins of the modern school choice movement, which is growing in strength throughout the United States. Author James K. Nelsen follows Milwaukee's tumultuous education history through three eras--no choice, forced choice, and school choice. Nelsen details the whole story of Milwaukee's choice movement through to modern times when Milwaukee families have more schooling options than ever--charter schools, open enrollment, state-funded vouchers, neighborhood schools--and yet Milwaukee's impoverished African American students still struggle to succeed and stay in school. Educating Milwaukee chronicles how competing visions of equity and excellence have played out in one city's schools in the modern era, offering both a cautionary tale and a choice example.

More Than One Struggle Jack Dougherty.2005-12-15 Traditional narratives of black educational history suggest that African Americans offered a unified voice concerning Brown v. Board of Education. Jack Dougherty counters this interpretation, demonstrating that black activists engaged in multiple, overlapping, and often conflicting strategies to advance the race by gaining greater control over schools. Dougherty tells the story of black school reform movements in Milwaukee from the 1930s to the 1990s, highlighting the multiple perspectives within each generation. In profiles of four leading activists, he reveals how different generations redefined the meaning of the Brown decision over time to fit the historical conditions of their particular struggles. William Kelley of the Urban League worked to win teaching jobs for blacks and to resettle Southern black migrant children in the 1950s; Lloyd Barbee of the NAACP organized protests in support of integrated schools and the teaching of black history in the 1960s; and Marian McEvilly and Howard Fuller contested--in different ways--the politics of implementing desegregation in the 1970s, paving the way for the 1990s private school voucher movement. Dougherty concludes by contrasting three interpretations of the progress made in the fifty years since Brown, showing how historical perspective can shed light on contemporary debates over race and education reform.

Meet Me Halfway Jennifer Morales.2015-04-21 When Johnquell, an African American teen, suffers a serious accident in the home of his white neighbor, Mrs. Czernicki, his community must find ways to bridge divisions between black and white, gay and straight, old and young. Set in one of the nation's most highly segregated cities--Milwaukee, Wisconsin--Meet Me Halfway tells stories of connections in a community with a tumultuous and divided past. In nine stories told from diverse perspectives, Jennifer Morales captures a Rust Belt city's struggle to establish a common ground and a collective vision of the future. Morales gives life to multifaceted characters--white schoolteachers and senior citizens, Latino landlords, black and Puerto Rican teens, political activists, and Vietnam vets. As their lives unfold in these stories, we learn about Johnquell's family--his grandparents' involvement in the local Black Panther Party, his sister's on-again, off-again friendship with a white classmate, and his aunt's identity crisis as she finds herself falling in love with a woman. We also meet Johnquell's mother, Gloria, and his school friend Taquan, who is struggling to chart his own future. As an activist mother in the thick of Milwaukee politics, Morales developed a keen ear and a tender heart for the kids who have inherited the city's troubled racial legacy. With a critical eye on promises unfulfilled, Meet Me Halfway raises questions about the notion of a "postracial" society and, with humor and compassion, lifts up the day-to-day work needed to get there. Fifty-Third Annual Report of the Board of School Directors of the City of Milwaukee Milwaukee Board of School Directors. 2017-11-08

Excerpt from Fifty-Third Annual Report of the Board of School Directors of the City of Milwaukee: For the Year Ending June 30, 1912 During the year now ended, work was begun upon an addition to the North Division High School, which will be completed and ready for occupancy at the opening of school in September. At the South Division High School, the addition for manual training was completed in September, but we were compelled to make use of the added space for class room purposes. The new southeast wing is being constructed and will doubtless be ready for occupancy this fall, making the manual training addition available for the purposes for which it was built. The addition to the Ninth Street School was completed in October and that of the Thirty-seventh Street School in February, and the work of constructing the Trade School for Boys is progressing with such rapidity that it will be ready for occupancy this fall, making it possible for the introduction of at least two new trades.
